★ INSPIRATION ★

KIRK AND SWEENEY was a wooden schooner, best known for smuggling rum from the Caribbean to the Northeast during the early years of Prohibition. In 1924, it was seized off the coast of New York with a massive amount of rum aboard. The schooner was subsequently renamed "Chase" and pressed into duty as a Coast Guard trainer, serving until the late 1940's when it was retired and salvaged.

★ DESIGN ★

Playing off the concept rum smuggling, an antique nautical map of the main east coast route is silkscreened around the circumference of the bottle. The neck is wrapped with antique nautical rope and features a necker that resembles an old-styled citation. Along with the ornate logo and the safety seal printed to look like nautical brass, the design serves as a reminder of the risk so many were willing to take for a good taste of rum during the 1920's.

The bottle and the raised cork were inspired by the elegantly squat 18th-century onion bottles, which typically contained rum. These beautiful bottles were sometimes encased with hemp netting which could be used as a handle or to hang the bottle from a ship beam.

★ PRODUCTION ★

Handcrafted in the Dominican Republic, this rum adheres to the very strict regulations to be called "Dominican Rum". The process begins with hand harvested, high quality sugarcane that is pure. The byproduct of the sugarcane, "Blackstrap Molasses" is then carefully fermented and distilled. Oak barreled in American oak, this is a rum well worth pursuing.
