We're taking a round-about path on our journey Around The World of Whiskey, and this week, we're stopping in Canada with five of our current favorites.

Canada is home to a wealth of talented whiskey makers making it tricky to stick to a few favorites. Did we miss one of your favorites? Share your favorite in the comments below!

Benjamin Chapman – 7 Year Whiskey

Created from a blend of 49% 7-year Canadian Prairie Wheat and 51% 10-year Canadian Rye mixed with pure glacial water, Benjamin Chapman is an invitingly smooth, truly-Canadian whiskey. A hint of spice opens on the palate from the rye, leading into silky flavors of white chocolate and crème brûlée from the wheat.
